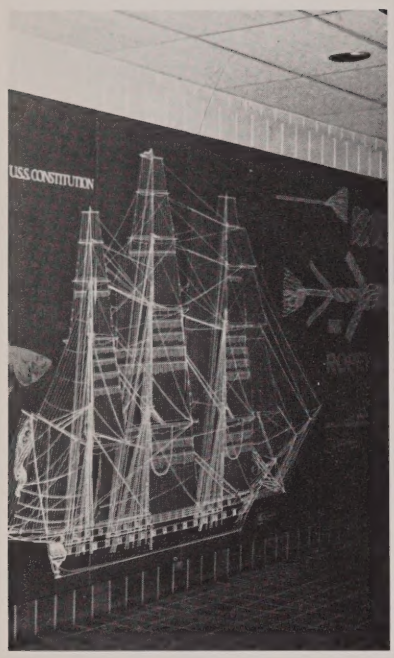
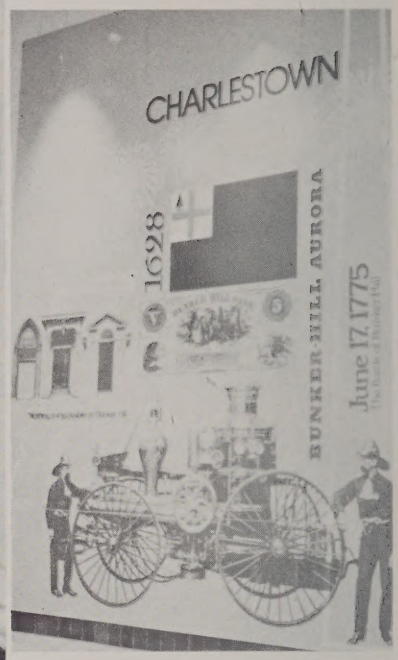
Mr. Robert F. Murphy, Headmaster





Headmaster's Message

To the Class of 1984:

Any teacher or school administrator can tell you how hard it is to say "Good-bye" to a graduating class. It is a time of sadness for I am saying farewell to many students whom I came to know over the last four years as I watched their progression from children to young adults.

But graduation is also a time of joy. It is always a pleasure to stand in front of the hundreds of parents and friends as the seniors proudly cross the stage and receive their diplomas. It is at that moment that I become aware of how much growth, both physical and intellectual, which has occurred during their stay at Charlestown. Teaching is a difficult job, but on that night, it all seems worthwhile.

Graduation is also a time of looking ahead. With your youth, enthusiasm, strength, and even your innocence, you will face many of life's problems that have vexed the generations of man for eternity. But you, as they have done, will persevere, you will create a new life for yourself, set new challenges, and reap new benefits as you gain strength and confidence from your successes.

Good luck! We are still here if you need a hand or have a question, but remember, the world and its future now belong to you. Make something of the unique gifts which you possess, and strive to leave the world a little better than when you found it. We can ask for no more.

Best of Luck,

Robert F. Murphy

The Maze Men tried electro-plating nails. How they glistened. Threads were nice and sharp, but the zinc coating was just too thin — not enough weather resistance. Then they tried tumbler and hot-galvanizing. These nails had more zinc, but the threads were so clogged with zinc that they lost much of their extra holding power.

• New design trends in housing. Houston, energy capital of the U.S., is fast regaining its reputation as one of the major fountainheads of housing design. Houston's home builders, who contributed the family room, the closet with furniture built-ins and the sexy bathroom, who successfully promoted outdoor living as an integral element of housing (yea—and long before California builders made the same move), are now wielding a collective design influence which combines aesthetic with economic appeal—a particularly fortuitous clearing for today's times.

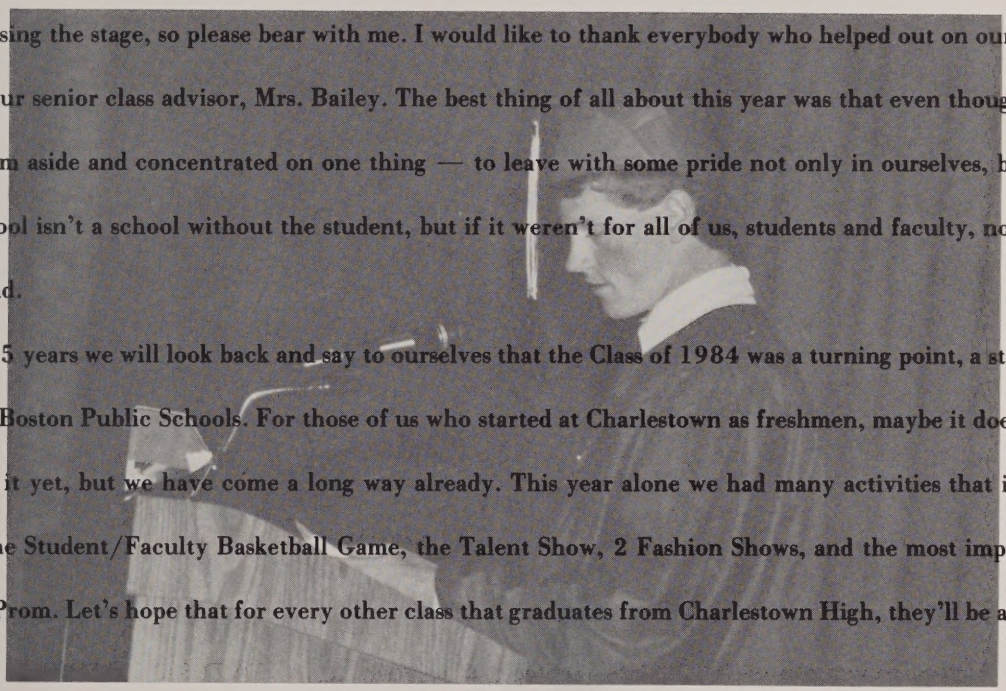
Welcoming Address — Class President

Eric Johnson

(School Committee); Honored Guests; Mr. Murphy; Parents; Teachers:

Fellow Students:

I would like to welcome everyone to the graduation exercises this evening — especially all of my fellow classmates who in a few short minutes will be crossing the stage, so please bear with me. I would like to thank everybody who helped out on our very successful senior year, especially to our senior class advisor, Mrs. Bailey. The best thing of all about this year was that even though all of us had our differences we put them aside and concentrated on one thing — to leave with some pride not only in ourselves, but also in Charlestown High School. A school isn't a school without the student, but if it weren't for all of us, students and faculty, nothing would ever have gotten off the ground.



Maybe in 10 or 15 years we will look back and say to ourselves that the Class of 1984 was a turning point, a stepping stone out of the recent chaos of the Boston Public Schools. For those of us who started at Charlestown as freshmen, maybe it doesn't seem so, or maybe we haven't realized it yet, but we have come a long way already. This year alone we had many activities that involved most of us; to name just a few: The Student/Faculty Basketball Game, the Talent Show, 2 Fashion Shows, and the most important highlight of the year — the Senior Prom. Let's hope that for every other class that graduates from Charlestown High, they'll be able to model their class after ours.

Four years can be a long time, and during those years we were sometimes involved in situations which almost tore the school apart. However, we were able to overcome these problems and tonight we should feel proud of ourselves for the way we've come together and by what we've accomplished. If we had to sum up the whole year somehow, I think we could simply say the past 10 months were like a poker game. We played the cards we were dealt, and made the best of the situation. I say this because tonight I feel we're holding All the Aces.

I hope everybody had a good time this year. I would like to thank all of you again, who helped make our last year together a success. I'm glad I got to know all of you, and I wish you the best wherever you go in life.

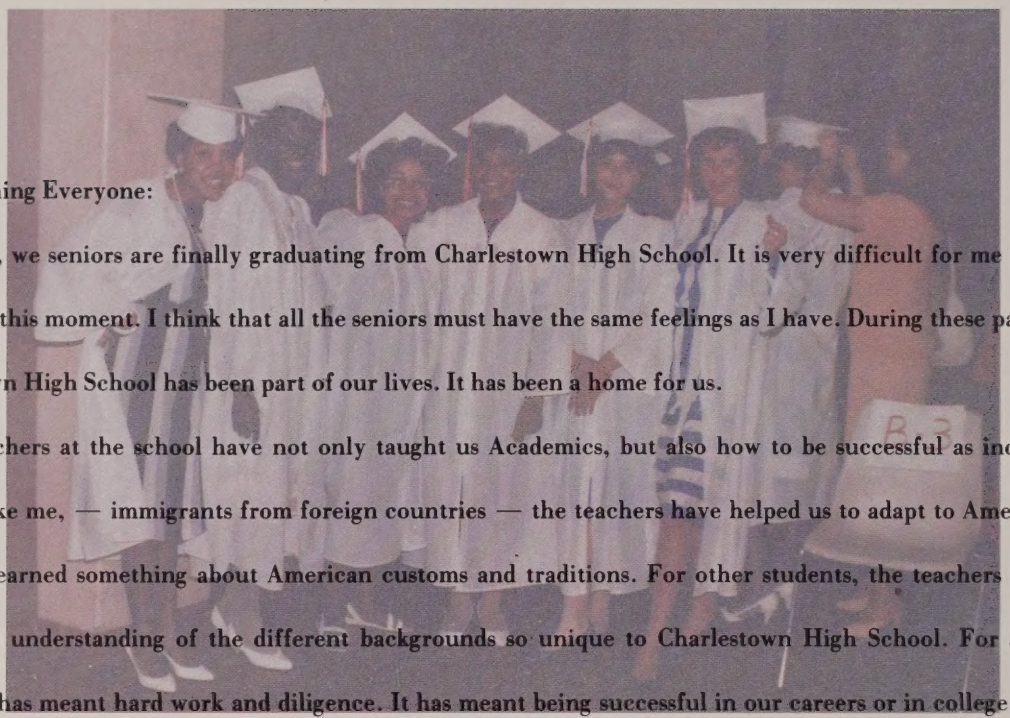
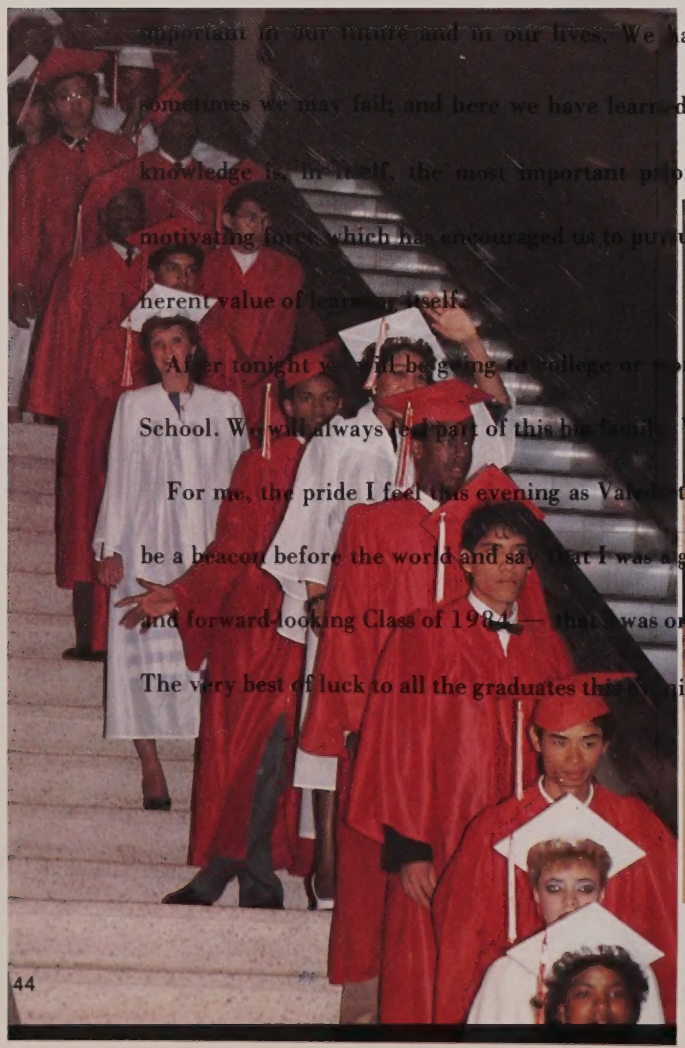
Valedictorian's Address
Hua "Anna" Chen



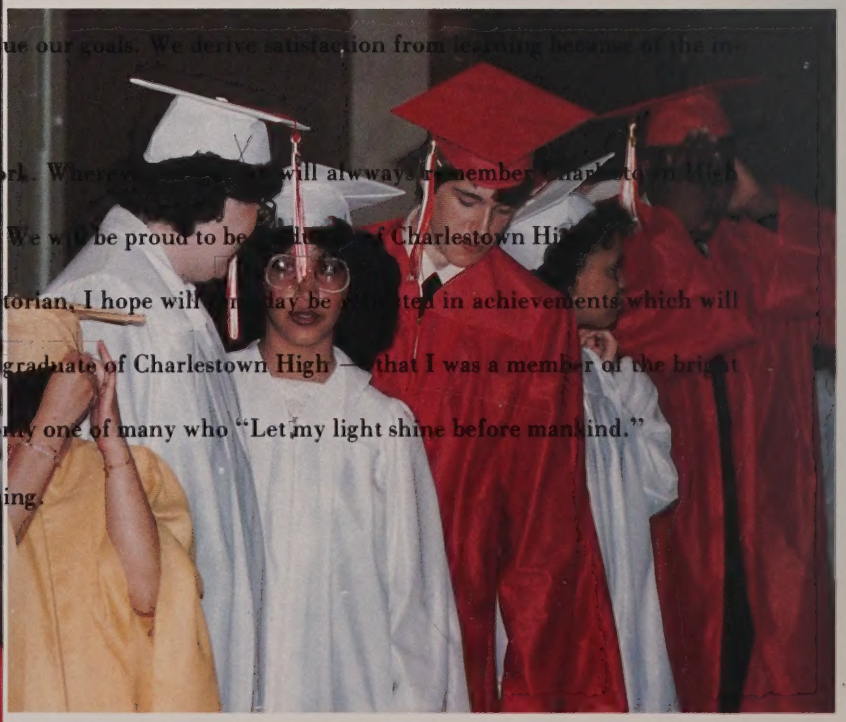
Good Evening Everyone:

Tonight, we seniors are finally graduating from Charlestown High School. It is very difficult for me to express my feelings at this moment. I think that all the seniors must have the same feelings as I have. During these past four years, Charlestown High School has been part of our lives. It has been a home for us.

The teachers at the school have not only taught us Academics, but also how to be successful as individuals. For students like me, — immigrants from foreign countries — the teachers have helped us to adapt to American society. We have learned something about American customs and traditions. For other students, the teachers have instilled values and understanding of the different backgrounds so unique to Charlestown High School. For all of us, our education has meant hard work and diligence. It has meant being successful in our careers or in college. Education is important to our future and in our lives. We have learned that life is not easy. Sometimes we may succeed but sometimes we may fail; and here we have learned how to accept our failures and how to strive for success. For us, knowledge is, in itself, the most important priority and one which no one can take away from us. This is the motivating force which has encouraged us to pursue our goals. We derive satisfaction from learning because of the inherent value of learning itself.



After tonight we will be going to college or work. Wherever we go, we will always remember Charlestown High School. We will always be part of this big family. We will be proud to be graduates of Charlestown High.



For me, the pride I feel this evening as Valedictorian, I hope will one day be reflected in achievements which will be a beacon before the world and say that I was a graduate of Charlestown High — that I was a member of the bright and forward-looking Class of 1984 — that I was only one of many who "Let my light shine before mankind."

The very best of luck to all the graduates this evening.

Ethnic-International Foods Luncheon

(Then) Mayor-Elect Ray Flynn

(The Challenger) Mel King

Two of Our Special Guests

With a Special Thanks

The Ethnic-International Foods Luncheon, held December 9th was a tremendous success. We had plenty of food from five different areas. Irish, Spanish, Asian, Italian and Soul.

From the initial planning, I must give special thanks to Ann Marie Biggins, Christine Upton and Lisa Searcy. The girls determined what tables would be needed and organized what and who they would ask to assist in setting up their tables.

Marisol Mendez for her organizing the Spanish students and their table; it was also a great job.

Fellows who helped bring tables up to the Cafe — Jacob DelValle, Raul Morell, Tony Palmarine, Andrew Robinson, Santos Mendez and Carlos Caban.

Tyler Roy for going out and purchasing the ice, he knew where to buy ice in Charlestown.

Kirk Parks who helped with everything that had to be done, up to and including last minute task — and his dapper change of clothes — didn't he look good???

Ms. Wendy Lee for her organizing the Asian table; and also her bringing together Chinese Community organizations.

Some of the students who cooked for the Soul table — Siddiq Turner, Delisa Perry, Vonda Harris, Olivia Brown, Leah Foreman and all the others who contributed.

I deeply appreciate all students who brought food and participated in making our Luncheon successful.

Thank you for the pie Mrs. McManus, ditto for the rolls Mrs. Mascoll; and a special thanks to Mrs. Dubose for giving up her free period to help; and to Mrs. Mingle for the fine taped music.

To Mr. Murphy for allowing us to show the communities that Charlestown High School is indeed coming together.

Bless each you — Mrs. Bailey
